
how to rank high in Yahoo

Yahoo SEO is absolutely different of Google. Many differences but the primary one is that Yahoo weighs on-page optimization much more heavily than google. With google off-page is much more significant than on-page and yahoo still has on-page being very, very significant.... though they seem to be weighing off-page more than they had been previously.

Keyword density: is the most important to yahoo and it should be between 5-10% , whereas google is fine with 1-2% which is more natural language IMHO.

It is always a fairy tale come true for those webmasters to see their websites rank first in the search results of Google, Yahoo, and MSN. Who would not be overwhelmed by this result? Anyone who happens to sell products, goods, and services would only be too delighted to find out this good news. In the world of online business, competition is a word that thrives in the air. Every single entrepreneur dreams of ranking first in the top notch search engines. And as it suggests, it is not possible that the webmasters would also dream that their competitors would be misplaced in the rankings. Now how could you possibly rank first in Google, Yahoo, and MSN?

Admit it, Google, Yahoo, and MSN are among the three giant search engines which are most sought-after by the website administrators. The internet users would not be dwelling much on seeking for up to the tenth page of the rankings in order to spot the website that caters to their needs.
